WAR ON POLIO—Ike Stevens, employee of White Oak Plant Spinning Department, brings his daughter to Nurse Juanita Johnson of the City Health Department for a shot of Salk vaccine. Immediately behind him is Mrs. Carson Rhew of 1215 Gordon Street, who has brought her daughter in for protection against polio. This scene occurred just after the WFMY-TV panel discussion by medical authorities on the availability and safety of the vaccine.

Television Brings Big Results In War On Polio

Hundreds of youngsters in the Piedmont area of North Carolina are squirming and kicking as they receive polio shots this week, but the parents of those same youngsters, and many hundreds more, will be able to face the summer, which always brings the fear of their children being stricken with the dread disease, with considerably more confidence.

On Thursday evening, December 29, WFMY-TV in Greensboro presented a 15 minute program on which the safety and availability of the Salk vaccine was discussed by a local pediatrician, the supervisor of nurses of the Guilford County Public Health Department, and the chairman of the local National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Concern was expressed by the panel over the small number of requests for inoculations and the members urged WFMY-TV viewers

Kilgallen Cites Employee's Son In Broadway Column

A hometown boy is really making good in the popular music world, and he's Tal Farlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Farlow. His father is in charge of the Supply Room at Revolution Flannel Plant.

Tal was cited in Dorothy Kilgallen's "Voice of Broadway" on January 19:

"The Composer (a night club in New York) will be a magnet for jazz fans starting January 19 when Tal Farlow, the brilliant young guitarist, opens there with his own wild instrumental trio."

Tal, who was born in Greensboro, went through Cesar Cone School and Proximity School. During World War II, he did some guitar playing at ORD. Later he went to New York where he played in a group at the Copacabana. Since then he has played with Artie Shaw's Band and with Red Norvo in California and on the famous Waikiki Beach in Hawaii.

Tal has now formed his own trio and is playing at the Composer.

134 At Proximity Get Congratulations

One hundred and thirty-four employees at Proximity Plant had perfect attendance for 1955. This is 11 per cent of the personnel of the plant.

Raymond Kincaid, assistant superintendent, has sent the following letter to the 134 who were not absent during 1955:

"Your supervisor and I note with pleasure that you have a perfect attendance work record for the year 1955. We would like to con-

PLANTS' MANAGER—Herman Cone, Jr., above, has been named manager of the Edna Plant, Reidsville, and the Pineville Plant, Pineville. He has been assistant manager of these two plants since November, 1952. Mr. Cone is son of the late President of Cone Mills Corporation Herman Cone and Mrs. Cone. He is married to the former Barbara Sternberger, and they have three sons, Herman Cone, III, Robert and Thomas. Their home is at 1811 Dalton Road. An alumnus of the University of North Carolina, Mr. Cone served as an officer in the Navy during World War II.

Cone Official's Son Wins Press Award

Robert C. Smith, son of Cone Mills official Harold W. Smith and Mrs. Smith, has been judged first place winner in the state of Virginia for a series of articles dealing with the trend to suburban living in the Norfolk area. The award for outstanding accomplishment in the field of journalism during 1955 was presented by the Virginia Press Association.

Mr. Smith, a former member of the staff of the Greensboro Record, is now on the staff of the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Judges for the press awards were members of the faculty of the School of Journalism of the University of North Carolina.

The winner's father is secretary and comptroller of Cone Mills Corporation.

43 At Tabardrey On Attendance List

The Tabardrey Plant management congratulates the employees there with perfect attendance during 1955. "We hope the list for 1956 will include many other Tabardrey

Power Plant Leads In Attendance Score

The Power Plant with 41 per cent of its employees having perfect attendance led the Cone Plants and units in attendance records for 1955.

Superintendent Charles E. Kerchner sent the following letter to the 23 employees who did not miss a single day of work last year:

"It is always a pleasure to learn of special accomplishments and it gave me particular pleasure to find at the close of 1955 that you have had a perfect attendance record for the year. Naturally, I share in the pride you must feel in being able to attain such a record and I congratulate you on it."

"I believe that your attendance record also reflects your interest in your work and in the progress of the Company, and I want you to know that your interest and your cooperation are appreciated."

"Good health is a great factor in a good attendance record and I hope that 1956 will bring you continued good health as well as a continuation of your fine attendance record."

Sincerely,
Charles E. Kerchner,
Superintendent of Power."

Those with perfect attendance last year were:

White Oak Lists Perfect Attendants

Two hundred and eleven employees at White Oak had no absences from their work during 1955. This is 10 per cent of the entire employment in the plant.

Superintendent Sherman Basinger is sending each of these people a letter of congratulations.

"It is indeed a pleasure to congratulate you for being among the 200 employees of White Oak Plant who had perfect attendance during 1955. The successful operation of any plant is largely due to the cooperation of every employee and I want you to know your overseer and I appreciate your fine work record."

"Best wishes for good health and perfect attendance for 1956."

Sincerely,
S. R. Basinger,
Superintendent"

Revolution Employees Tackle Quality Control

The employees of Revolution Flannel Plant have hit upon a practical method of approaching the problem of quality control. Realizing that customers are becoming more and more demanding of quality goods at low cost, the Revolution people are taking turns at serving on their own Quality Control Committee.

This committee, on a voluntary basis, goes through the plant at certain intervals during six weeks of membership. Made up of employees from all three shifts of each department of the mill, this group is able to observe operations in departments other than their own. They can determine just what mistakes in other mill operations could be marring the quality of the finished material.

When the committee has made its rounds, the members are invited to write down their suggestions, in their own words, and hand them to their overseers, who in turn pass them on to Superintendent Coley Phillips or Assistant Superintendent Lennie Ritter.

Every employee in the plant will have an opportunity to serve on the committee.

At the end of the committee's service, a dinner is given in honor of the members.

The second such dinner meeting was held last Saturday night at White Oak Hotel. Approximately 80 committee members heard Marion W. Helms, Cone Mills vice president, and George Smith, heading Cone Mills quality control, speak.

"Never before have customers been so demanding of quality," said Mr. Helms. "With competition as great as it is today, we must have low cost, high efficiency in the mill and top quality cloth. If we are not able to meet the demands of the public, it doesn't affect just the stockholders or just the management, but also each employee in the plant," he declared.

Mr. Smith, after recent visits to customers in various parts of the country, declared that customers are not being satisfied.

"If we do not meet their demands, someone else will. They look to us for goods which is free of defects, cut in correct yardage, baled and strapped correctly, etc. Every person in the plant has a job to do. The burden does not rest on supervision alone. It is supervision's responsibility to call attention to be sure every person realizes that his own job is important."

Mr. Smith cautioned the committee to keep constant attention to detail and hard work, bringing about higher efficiency and lower costs which usually result in better quality.

Superintendent Phillips was master of ceremonies.

Supt. Congratulates Rayon Employees On Attendance Record

Revolution Rayon Plant had 25 employees, or 7.46 per cent, with perfect attendance last year.

Each has received a letter of congratulation from Superintendent Luther D. Smith.

"Congratulations! I am very happy to commend you for your perfect attendance record for 1955."

"The Management deeply appreciates your loyalty to the Company and your interest in your jobs, and we sincerely hope that you may keep your fine attendance record throughout 1956."

Yours Very truly,
Luther D. Smith"

Those with perfect attendance records are:

C. M. Brittenham, Bascom I. Brown, Kenneth K. Clegg, Henry H. Craven, James A. Glidewell, Harvey Gordon, Edgar Grady, Claude Hancock, Porter H. Knight, Joseph J. Kulick, Roy E. Landes, Thomas W. AT DINNER MEETING—Here are a few of the members of the Quality Control Committee of Revolution Flannel Plant who attended the dinner meeting at White Oak Hotel last Saturday night. They are, left to right, Mrs. Lula Oates, Mrs. Ola Black, Lance Horner, Mrs. Mary Saunders, Henry Moore, Esker Fulk, Dean Viekory, Mrs. Mattie Fulk and Mrs. Nina Phillips.

FOR QUALITY CONTROL—Charles T. Ferree, Mrs. Margaret Berry, Mrs. Daisy Mae Freeman and Grady Hughes, members of the Revolution Quality Control Committee, are shown looking for dirty filling, holes, oil spots, stains and other flaws at one of the lighted inspection machines. Every employee at Revolution will have an opportunity to serve on this committee, which visits all departments of the plant to determine causes for seconds. These people know that low costs, high efficiency and top quality make for more security in the jobs of every employee.

Revolution Employees Receive Compliment

One hundred and eighty employees or 12 per cent, at Revolution Flannel Plant hold a perfect attendance record for 1955. Superintendent Coley Phillips states:

"I want to take this opportunity to personally thank these employees for their perfect attendance during this past year."

"My assistants, our overseers and all supervisors would like to join me in expressing our appreciation to those who made the Attendance Honor Roll in 1955, and we all hope that not only these employees but many others will have good health during 1956 and that our perfect attendance record for this year will be even better than it was in 1955."

C. F. Phillips, Supt."

Cone YMCA Board Of Directors Has 34th Meet

Speaking to the 34th annual meeting of the Cone YMCA board of directors and guests, last Tuesday night, Charles T. McNary, personnel and public relations director of Blue Bell, Inc. told the group that the YMCA was a character building institution for men and women. The dinner meeting was held at Proximity Y building. Officers were elected.

Using as his topic, "Why Should We Be Enthusiastic For the Y?", Mr. McNary spoke of the Y as a service organization, and said it was building boys instead of mending men. He also said that the Y could be used as a guard rail for boys in helping them choose the right way.

The speaker was introduced by Wade Jenkins, who also gave the invocation.

Raymond Kincaid, past president of the Y presided. Mrs. George Nance, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Moir Ayers, furnished music.

Frank Starling, on the Y board of directors for last year gave the report for the nominating committee, including officers. Those to serve on the board for 1956. Those serving this year are R. C. Honey-

Good Insurance

The front page of this issue of The Textorian carries a local picture typical of the many being published all over the country at this time.

If any medium of communication, whether it be newspaper, magazine, radio or television, has ignored the March of Dimes, it has betrayed a public trust.

Always lending a hand to worthy national and civic drives, we speak out urgently today for this all-important campaign to eradicate polio.

Infantile paralysis has not been beaten, not by a long shot—or a Salk shot.

Although the vaccine is a tremendous stride forward, it cannot eliminate the disease overnight.

This has been proved by the fact that tens of thousands of Americans were stricken with polio in 1955. Today these most recent polio victims, along with those of former years—68,000 in all, require help in their struggle to rebuild their lives.

Thousands more will be hit by the disease before wide-spread use of the Salk vaccine or other means can reduce the toll significantly.

It is here that the dimes now marching in are so greatly needed.

The national Foundation for Infantile Paralysis stands ready to offer aid to all polio victims—past, present and future, no matter how great the cost. And the cost can at times be unbelievably great: as much as $20,000 for a single patient!

The work of Dr. Salk himself, financed by the March of Dimes, totaled two million dollars in cost.

The foundation also pays for the training of hundreds of urgently needed physical therapists, medical social workers and specially skilled nurses and physicians. At the same time, it makes institutional grants to scores of scientists to aid them in their research in the fight against polio.

There are several employees here at Cone Mills who know all too well the results of this enemy's attacking their homes. They are always glad of an opportunity to tell how much the March of Dimes means to them personally.

Contributions this month and throughout the year are insurance for the best care available when polio strikes again.

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER

HISTORY

David Livingstone set out to discover the ultimate source of the great Nile River, and would not give up his magnificent adventure even though it meant death. He was born in 1813, was ordained a missionary in 1840, and in 1849 started his historic explorations of Africa. After explorations that carried him into the heart of Africa, he continued again in his journeys until he was found by Stanley who had been sent out by the New York Herald to find him. While Stanley returned with his journals, Livingstone went on though he knew he was dying. After his death in May, 1873 in a village near Lake Bangweulu, his followers carried his body to the coast and he was finally buried in Westminster Abbey in April 1874. For an exciting story, read Stanley's How I Found Livingstone.

Can you name it?

The first one was built by a Frenchman, Cugnot in 1771, had three wheels, was propelled by a steam engine, carried two people at a speed of two and one-half miles per hour. In the 1890's many were driven by an electric motor. Its development to its present efficiency with gasoline engine has been made possible largely by improvements in metallurgy and machine shop practice. The first gasoline operated ones had only one cylinder, and 1915 and 1916 were the years of the great eight cylinder models. Earliest gasoline models had leather belt, and pulley transmissions. Different sized pulleys resulted in different speed ratios. Reverse was accomplished through a crossed belt. The first important speed contest was won by Levasor who drove a four horse-powered Panhard which ran from Paris to Bordeaux and back, 750 miles, at an average speed of 16.4 miles per hour. Close to 300 miles per hour have been attained by more recent models. In 1908 there were about 50,000 of them in the United States. Now there are millions, so many that any evening in a city one must still in them a good part of the time because of their very number.

America by 1975 will be a land in which the discoveries being made daily today, and the contemplated developments from continuing research, will make our life revolutionary.

The National Association of Manufacturers cites a speech entitled "Business Growth and Expansion—The Long Term Prospects" by Robert D. Calkins, Ph.D., L.L.D., President, The Brookings Institution, in this respect.

Dr. Calkins, said, in part:

"In addition, the jet engines, the gas turbine, the electronic computer, new lubricants, surface finishing, ultrasonics, automation, fast flames, and high temperatures afford incalculable opportunities and possibilities for industry. . . . Meanwhile, in agriculture the revolution proceeds with constantly improved seeds, pest control, soil conditioning, new cultivation methods, and rain making."

cook electrically

Housewives by the thousands are switching to Electric Cooking.

They are realistic about the reasons—

- Pots and pans stay clean.
- No tipping or tilting, even with smallest pans.
- No pilot needed.
- Heat only when and where you want it.

The Drivers Clinic

(A question and answer column on traffic safety, driving and automobiles conducted for this newspaper by the State Department of Motor Vehicles.)

Question: What gear do you use going down a steep hill?

Answer: Usually the same gear necessary to climb the hill. Or a gear which will keep the car under control without constant application of the brakes.

Question: How do you change to a lower gear going down a steep hill?

Answer: In this order, Depress clutch, shift to neutral, release clutch, rev up engine, depress clutch, shift easy to lower gear, release clutch.

Question: Why does one low tire cause a car to skid?

Answer: It gives a slight increase in traction on one wheel which may throw the forces acting on the car out of balance, especially on a slick surface.

Question: Why is it only one rear wheel turns when a car is stuck?

Answer: The differential which permits the car to turn corners also permits the rear wheel that meets the least resistance to turn faster than the other wheel. When a car is stuck, a slight difference in the holding force of the mud, or sand, will permit one wheel to spin and the car will not move.

Question: How do you increase traction when only one rear wheel turns?

Answer: Place under the spinning wheel any material that will help increase traction. Examples: Dry branches, weeds, dirt, stones.

Question: What's a quick way to tell whether your headlights are out of focus?

Answer: Once you know your headlights are in proper focus, drive your car into your garage with the headlights on high beam. Make a cross with a piece of chalk on the back wall of the garage at the center or hot spot, of each beam. You can then quickly check your headlights anytime to see whether they are out of focus. Do not take for granted new car headlights are in focus. Have them checked. A beam one degree off at the lamp will be off five feet at 300 feet.

ROTC Sergeant: Does your uniform fit satisfactorily?

Frosh: Well, the jacket is okay, sir, but the pants are a bit snug under the armpits.

The Bible Speaks To Your Need

By Rev. W. L. Bennett, Pastor
Sixteenth St. Baptist Church

"Now I belong to Jesus." This is a song that only a born-again person can sing. But it is one he should sing, believe and live. "I do not belong to myself anymore, nor to my wife or husband, my business, or my world. I belong to Jesus, for I am a Christian." What does this mean in a practical way? It means that all I am is His to possess, to rule, to transform and to use for His eternal glory—my body, my mind, my abilities, my time, my influence, my testimony and my possessions. This is Christian stewardship. Repentance is the capitulation of sin in man's heart. Stewardship is the surrender of the total person, with all he is, to the Lordship of Jesus Christ.

What kind of steward are you. "It is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful." (1 Cor. 4:2) Every Christian is called to be a steward. Are you a faithful steward? Or are you deceived in believing that salvation is a free ticket to glory, and nothing particular is required of you? "Woe unto them that are at ease in Zion." (Amos 6:1) Are you investing your body, mind, abilities, time, testimony and influence for Jesus' sake? Or are you appropriating these precious gifts, which have been given to you by God and which belong to God, for yourself? Remember, Christian, "Ye are not your own. For ye are bought with a price (even the 'precious blood of Jesus'); therefore glorify God in your body and in your spirit, which are God's." (1 Cor. 6:19-20)

Are you a steward of your money? Or are you misled in thinking the pastor should not preach on giving and "get back to preaching the gospel." Money is only a part of Christian stewardship, but it is a basic part. Listen to Jesus: "If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon (money), who will commit to your trust the true riches?" (Lk. 16:11) One cannot be a faithful steward and give less than the tithe. When one has made the surrender of stewardship in this matter of stewardship, the tithe is God's minimum; it is holy unto the Lord (Lev. 27:30, Matt. 23:23).

But the Christian standard for giving is stated in 1 Cor. 16:2, "Upon the first day of the week, let everyone of you lay by him in store as God hath prospered him. . . . We are not to gauge our giving by the tithe. But if possible we are to give beyond the tithe 'as God has prospered us.' Our gifts are to be given through the local church, by each individual earner, each Lord's Day as an act of divine worship.

Remember: To God we must account for our stewardship. 'Give an account of thy stewardship; for thy mayest be no longer steward.' (Lk. 16:2)

Rev. Club To Meet Feb. 1

Revolution Community Club will meet next Wednesday, February 1 at 10:00 o'clock in the club room over Revolution Employment Office. All women of the community are invited.

A teacher asked her class the difference between results and the consequences. One pupil replied, "Results are what you expect; consequences are what you get."

Cesar Cone School PTA Meets Tuesday

The monthly meeting of the Cesar Cone Parent-Teacher Association will be held Tuesday, January 31, at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. H. L. Creed has planned a Parent-Education program on Children of Goodwill. This will be presented in the form of a panel discussion.

Panel members will be, Dr. Gordon Lovejoy, professor of Human Relations at Guilford College; Miss Bess N. Rosa, associate professor of Child Development and Family Relations at Woman's College; Rev. A. P. Dixon, pastor of Buffalo Presbyterian Church; and Mr. H. M. Angel, general secretary of Cone Memorial YMCA. Mrs. H. L. Creed will preside at the meeting.

Parents Magazine Shows Denim Popular Among School Age.

The nation's manufacturers of blue jeans, together with mills producing blue denim, were enthusiastic over data released by Parents Magazine revealing the wide-spread popularity and general use of their product by children of all ages as well as all members of the family.

Fully 100 per cent of youngsters aged 10 to 17, and at least one member of 96 per cent of all families polled recently by the publication, own one or more pairs of blue jeans. The figures show that 97 per cent of children under 10, two-thirds of the wives and one-half of the husbands in the families polled wear them.

Also, a factor in current blue jean and denim producer optimism for 1956 business, figures of the magazine show that youngsters of all ages manage to wear out one and one-half to three pairs of these durable, hard-use, low cost items of apparel every year.

The Parents Magazine poll of a cross-section of its more than 1,500,000 readers further shed important light on family and school attitudes on the wearing of blue jeans.

Only a tenth of parents responding in the survey felt that the wearing of blue jeans had any effect whatever on their children's manners, and to the question, "What effect?" most parents said jeans give children more comfort and freedom and make them feel more relaxed and "equal."

Schools attended by children, the survey showed, in only 25 per cent of cases have expressed any attitude on the wearing of blue jeans to class, and of those which have taken a stand, more schools have made the decision to accept them as school apparel than have taken steps to discourage them.

In the stores, the poll showed that durability and inexpensive price are leading factors in the public's buying preference for blue jeans.

Commenting on the poll which was jointly made public by Parents Magazine and the Denim Council, Robert Shaw of Cone Mills Inc., states that the poll provided encouraging evidence of the board interest and popular demand evident throughout the country for blue jeans.

"It demonstrates clearly," he said, "the popularity of these durable, useful, and attractive items of clothing for people of all age groups and attractive items of clothing for people of all age groups and the opportunities for their wider use in the home, at school, in the wide-spread 'do-it-yourself' movement, and all areas where long wearing and inexpensive clothing is needed."

"To the Denim Council, which is sponsoring broad programs of student and school activity and movements by teenagers, the evidence that those schools which concern themselves with dress are more often approving than discouraging jeans is evidence of the value of this constructive program."

Kool Springs Trailer Park, with Esther Coble's 272 set leading the way, along with Lorraine Amos' 103 high game, took two games from the top team, Benlee's, last Friday night. For Benlee's, Ila Roberts had high set, 272, and high game, 105.

Edmond's Drug lost two to Summit Center Esso. For Edmond's, Minnie Wood bowled high set, 276, and high game, 102. Virginia Gaylord sparked the Summit Center Esso team with an even 300 set, with games of 104, 105, and 91.

Special Missionary Service At St. Paul's

Miss Maisie Doyle, missionary serving in Africa, will be the speaker of the morning worship service at St. Paul's Methodist Church this Sunday morning, January 29.

Miss Doyle has been affiliated with the World Gospel Mission for several years and has recently returned home from Kenya Colony Africa. During her term of service in Kenya there broke forth the terrorism sponsored by the Mau Mau. Miss Doyle has a very challenging testimony of the mission work in Africa.

This service was originally planned for Sunday evening, but because of previous engagements, it was necessary to change to the morning hour.

Next Issue

The Textorian hopes to have a report of the speech by Cone Mills Vice President Marion W. Heiss at the Kiwanis Club meeting yesterday in its next issue. The talk on "Japan in 1950 and in 1955" was made after this week's deadline.

So far, this paper has not carried a report on Mr. Heiss' most recent trip to Japan in November, 1955.

Assembly Speaker

Lelah Nell Masters spoke to Sternberger School assembly this morning on "Know Your Greensboro." This talk included a brief history of Cone Mills.

to have their children inoculated before Spring.

Since the day following the television program the offices of the Public Health Departments and private physicians in Greensboro and surrounding cities have been besieged by parents bringing their children in for first shots, in addition to those coming for the second shots. A number of pediatricians had to increase their staffs in order to handle the additional patients. One Public Health Department had to bring field nurses in to assist the regular clinic nurses in giving shots and had to set aside additional space to take care of the increased demand for the vaccine. Some Public Health Departments have used all, or nearly all, of their current allocation of the vaccine.

A survey of Greensboro, Burlington, Winston-Salem and Durham indicated that there had been a gain of 100 per cent in the number of patients requesting the Salk inoculations.

Many youngsters face the nurse with the needle in her hand with trepidation, but as a result of the audience, response to the WPMY-TV panel's advice, the Piedmont area faces the summer of 1956 with an expectation of fewer cases of infantile paralysis.
